The Charles University Environment Center in cooperation with Jan Evangelista Purkyně University invite you to participate in an international seminar on establishing the first Regional Centre for Expertise (RCE) on Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) in the Czech Republic.

RCEs are networks of local or regional institutions working together to promote all types and levels of learning for a sustainable future. The RCE concept is the brainchild of the United Nations University created to encourage dialogue among diverse parties which include universities, NGOs, regional and municipal governments, schools, museums, etc. The seminar will be addressed by leading European experts on ESD and representatives of existing European RCEs.
